Liberals Take Control In Ottawa Ceremony

Bomb Calls, Flag Burning Flare Again In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Bomb scares and flag-burning flared up again in Montreal Sunday following the death of an elderly night watchman in an explosion at the rear of a downtown army recruiting office. The fatal blast just before midnight Saturday was blamed on Le Front de Liberation Quebecois, which describes itself as a Quebec separatist group of "suicide commandos" pledged to destroy by sabotage "all colonial symbols and institutions, particularly the RCMP and the armed forces."

Dead is William Victor O'Neill, 63, a civil servant due to retire next month. He was killed when the bomb exploded in a wooden refuse box behind the recruiting office. His wife survives.

Army sources said Mr. O'Neill walked out the back door shortly before the bomb went off at 11:40, throwing his body about 10 feet into a lane. Other Quebec secessionist groups condemned the bombing, saying terrorism does the separatist cause more harm than good.

An army source said Mr. O'Neill's body was badly mutilated by the blast. The left hand was blown off and left arm shattered. "He must have touched something."

A BOOBY TRAP? Det. Sgt. Leo Plouffe, Montreal police bomb expert, said he was "fairly certain" it was a booby trap but it might take several days to reconstruct what happened.

Nothing was found at the scene to link the explosions directly with the FLQ. But the slogan "vive le Quebec libre" (long live free Quebec) was scrawled on a nearby telephone booth, and an anonymous telephone caller told the Montreal bureau of The Canadian Press about an hour earlier that the FLQ's "operation Jean Lesage" is continuing as announced.

A similar telephone tip to The Canadian Press Friday night about "operation Jean Lesage" was followed in 10 minutes by an explosion at the rear of the RCMP garages in suburban Westmount. That blast shattered windows but caused no injuries.

The FLQ named its sabotage campaign after Mr. Lesage in a mimeographed press release, describing the Quebec premier as a "collaborator and traitor to his people."

A rash of bomb scares and incidents involving Quebec's blue-and-white fleur-de-lys flag broke out Sunday night.

Police were kept hopping as 15 callers reported bombs planted in various locations and demonstrators hauled down the fleur-de-lys from the downtown Place Ville Marie skyscraper and the Windsor Hotel.

New Westminster Probe Starts Into Jail Riot

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — An investigation opens today into a B.C. federal penitentiary riot in which the life of a guard was spared by meeting the demands of three desperate convicts that they be transferred to prisons elsewhere in Canada.

The guard, Pat Dennis, 35, was held hostage by the three for 14 hours from Friday night until late Saturday morning. He was wired to a chair while a hooded, six-inch knife was held at his throat.

While negotiations for his release went on, 200 other prisoners went on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows in the big greystone penitentiary and setting fire to bedding. They were finally quelled by tear gas fired by a quickly-assembled force of 200 police plus prison guards.

In return for Dennis' release, Gerard Calisey, 28, and Wayne Carlson, 21, were put aboard a plane for St. Vincent de Paul prison near Montreal. And Nelson Wood, 27, serving eight years for robbery, was sent to Stony Mountain prison near Winnipeg.

Calisey had served five of 17 years for attempted murder and armed robbery and Carlson three years and eight months for theft.

Reunited with his wife, his son, David, 4, and his 10-year-old daughter, Carol Anne, Dennis said Sunday night he'll be back on the job today.

"I was offered time off but I feel fine," he said.

MAY DROP RECREATION Warden Tom Hall will conduct the investigation into the cause of the riot and said the 670 prisoners in the big prison 12 miles east of Vancouver may lose their evening recreational period as a result of the uprising.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Pat Dennis wished his son a belated happy fourth birthday Sunday, and apologized for not attending the party the day before.

Dennis missed the celebration because he was sitting deep in the British Columbia penitentiary, copper wire around his neck and hands, a prisoner's knife at his throat.

Top Security In De Gaulle Tour

PARIS (Reuters) — Security experts were out in full force today to pave the way for the start of a seven-day provincial tour by President de Gaulle — his first since an attempt on his life last August.

De Gaulle's first stop, after leaving Paris today, was to be a speech at the Franco-Belgian border town of Sedan.

A special locomotive carrying explosives experts was to travel ahead of the president's train to all points on the tour.

Police said soldiers were also to be hidden at short intervals in all fields and woods along the route.

Funeral Mass For Slain Priest

VANCOUVER (CP) — Archbishop William Duke, Roman Catholic primate of the Vancouver diocese, will give funeral mass Wednesday for a Franciscan priest killed by a rifle blast at the door of a monastery here Friday night.

Laos Hope "Not Lost"

VIENTIANE (AP) — With a new cease-fire promise from the Pathet Lao, neutralists Lao Premier Souvanna Phouma says "all hopes are not lost to restore peace" in northern Laos.

Souvanna appeared doubtful, however, that the latest stoppage arrangement will work any better than last week's cease-fire, broken within hours.

Souvanna reported after a flying visit to the Pathet Lao headquarters of his half-brother Prince Souvannavong, that the pro-Communist command agreed to halt its drive against the Plain de Jarres until after the premier returns to the area in a day or so to resume peace efforts.

CANADA-U.S. NUCLEAR PACT "PROBABLY SIGNED IN MONTH"

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said today he expects a Canada-United States agreement on custody and control of nuclear warheads will be signed in about a month.

He said in an interview it would take some months after that before the American nuclear warheads were actually in position on Canadian bases.

The warheads for the RCAF air division in Europe would be available about six months after the signing of the agreement. Warheads for Canadian air defence — the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and the Voodoo jet interceptor — might be available a little earlier.

"I don't foresee any difficulty in getting this resolved," Mr. Hellyer said outside Government House after being sworn in with the new Liberal cabinet.

Total Of Nine Children Die In Two Canadian House Fires

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A nine-year-old girl is in satisfactory condition in hospital today with cuts suffered when she leaped to safety from her burning home here yesterday.

Terry Pollard, her sister Frances and their parents were the only ones to escape the blaze which destroyed their home and killed four other children.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pollard watched helplessly as the blaze turned their two-story frame home at the Metlakatla Indian village into rubble before fire-fighting equipment arrived.

Dead are Jacqueline, 8, Glen, 6, Cindy, 3, and Colleen, 1. Frances and Terry escaped from their second-storey bedroom by smashing a window and leaping from a 10-foot-high porch.

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Police said today laborer John W. Smagata, 41, father of five children who died in a fire which swept through their home here early Sunday, is being held under the Mental Hospitals Act.

He was to be taken today to the Ontario Hospital at Hamilton for observation.

Smagata, father of 11, was taken into custody after police found him wandering in a dazed condition outside his blazing two-story home in the south end of this Niagara peninsula city.

Michael, 10, Cathie, 7, Ronald, 6, Robert, 4, and Gerald, 2, died as flames raced through the building, destroying the interior in 45 minutes but barely damaging the outside.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The fifth Pan-American Games in 1967 will be held in Winnipeg. The Pan-American sports organization selected the Canadian city's spirited bid today over Caracas, Venezuela and Santiago, Chile.

Martin, Chevrier, Hellyer In List Of Few Surprises

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson, smiling and in striped pants and a red jacket, came to Ottawa today and arrived at Government House today and was sworn in as 14th prime minister of Canada.

With him were 25 Liberal members of Parliament, his choices for cabinet posts in the new government.

Mr. Pearson first went in alone to see Governor-General Vanier to take the oath of office and present Gen. Vanier with his list of cabinet members. The list required formal agreement of the Governor-General.

As soon as Gen. Vanier consented to the list, the names of the 25 cabinet members and their portfolios were made public.

There were few surprises in it.

Top posts went to Paul Martin, 59-year-old veteran MP for Essex East, Ont., who becomes external affairs minister; Lionel Chevrier of Montreal, a former Conservative, to take the office of Minister of Justice; Paul Hellyer, Toronto Trinity, to take the office of Minister of Defence; Mitchell Sharp, Toronto Eglinton, trade, and Walter Gordon, Toronto Davenport, finance.

(See full list column 8.)

Mr. Pearson was the first to be sworn in, followed immediately by the four ministers who had held posts in the previous Liberal government in 1957 and already were members of the Privy Council — Mr. Martin, Mr. Pickersgill, Mr. Chevrier, and Mr. Hellyer.

Then the other new cabinet members were sworn in also.

Later each minister took a separate oath to be invested with his particular portfolio.

The oaths were administered by Robert Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council, in the presence of the Governor-General.

Great Seal Of Canada Handed To External Affairs Minister

Gen. Vanier handed over the Great Seal of Canada to Mr. Pickersgill, who in turn gave it to Jean Miquelon, undersecretary of state.

Mr. Pearson wore a short black jacket with striped trousers, and a four-in-hand.

Some of the ministers wore formal suits similar to Mr. Pearson's, but many came in business suits.

As State Secretary Pickersgill and External Affairs Minister Martin walked toward the main entrance, the former said:

"You're walking too fast; you seem anxious."

"We've lots to do," Mr. Martin said.

About 100 reporters were on hand in the Rideau Hall foyer.

April 8 federal election. All 17 ridings in that province elected Progressive Conservatives.

In the former Liberal government, which was defeated in the 1957 election, Mr. Martin held the health portfolio, Mr. Chevrier had transport, Mr. Pickersgill immigration and Mr. Hellyer associate defence.

Mr. Pearson was the external affairs minister in that administration, led by Louis St. Laurent.

Counting the new prime minister, the Liberal cabinet totaled 26 members compared to the 24 in the outgoing Conservative cabinet. The Conservative cabinet never had more than eight Ontario members or seven Quebec ministers.

The last previous Liberal cabinet in 1957 had 21 ministers.

Youngest member of the Liberal cabinet is Miss La March, 38, followed by Mr. Hellyer, 39. Oldest — and only member of the Upper House in the ministry — is Senator Macdonald, 71. Mr. Pearson, who will be 66 Tuesday, is the second oldest.

10 FROM ONTARIO

In the geographical breakdown, 10 of the 26 cabinet members — including Mr. Pearson — are from Ontario constituencies.

There are eight from Quebec, two from British Columbia and one each from Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Alberta.

Only province not represented is Saskatchewan where the Liberals did not win a seat in the first in 1955 but his service is not continuous since he served three years, 1954 to 1957 — as president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. Ranking next in terms of Commons service is Transport Minister M. Hellyer, MP since 1940.

MACNAUGHTON SPEAKER? Although not in the cabinet lineup of Alan MacNaughton, Montreal Mount Royal, heightened reputation that he will be Mr. Pearson's nominee as Speaker of the 26th Parliament.

The cabinet includes four members elected to the Commons for the first time in the April 8 general federal election.

Speaker Of House Speculation Sees MacNaughton As Selection

Mr. Pickersgill, as well as being secretary of state, will act as government House leader in the Commons. This is an important post in which he will be in charge of the day-to-day schedule for moving government business through Parliament.

Senator Macdonald was solicitor-general during the former Liberal administration.

Two members of the new cabinet have been members of the Commons continuously since 1945 — External Affairs Minister Martin and Postmaster-General Dent. Justice Minister Chevrier also entered the Commons first in 1955 but his service is not continuous since he served three years, 1954 to 1957 — as president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. Ranking next in terms of Commons service is Transport Minister M. Hellyer, MP since 1940.

MACNAUGHTON SPEAKER? Although not in the cabinet lineup of Alan MacNaughton, Montreal Mount Royal, heightened reputation that he will be Mr. Pearson's nominee as Speaker of the 26th Parliament.

Hardly A Canadian Ripple At U.S. Steel Price Hike

TORONTO (CP)—Steel price increases in the United States, which once might have caused a considerable wash over into Canada, created hardly a ripple Saturday.

This is attributed in steel circles to the great expansion in the Canadian steel industry since the war; to increased efficiency and adoption of new methods; and to the fact that the largely Canadian-controlled industry has little, if any, direct links with the United States.

As one steel spokesman expressed it: "Our prices are based on Canadian conditions and costs and have no relation to the U.S. price structure."

Accordingly, he added, if and when Canadian prices change it will be for reasons within the Canadian industry. However, observers currently see no evidence that any general price increase is pending, even though there has been no major increases since 1957.

So long as Canadian producers can hold the line, the American increases better their competitive position.

MEANS MORE BUSINESS

"It will throw additional business to Canadian companies," one observer commented.

Canada now supplies more than 80 per cent of its steel requirements and every betterment in the competitive position tends to cut off a few more imports.

The American increases, however, presumably will show in steel still imported from the U.S., which includes wide-flange (30 to 36 inches) structural steel beams.

The increases may also show in components imported by manufacturers from the United States. The effect of this, however, is to send the companies looking for Canadian sources of supply and to improve the chances of Canadian parts manufacturers for picking up new business.

A spokesman for the automotive industry, a large importer of components, said he doesn't expect the U.S. increases to affect prices on this year's models.

els because of a disinclination to change prices in the midst of a model year. He couldn't say what the effect might be next year.

HAVE MODERN MILLS One steel observer described the Canadian steel mills as "the most modern in the world," with some of them using methods not yet generally adopted in the United States.

It is this need for change, he commented, that brings a pressing need for money on American companies, and they are trying to get it through the increase.

However, increases step up the competition from other materials, such as aluminum and concrete.

D. S. Holbrook, president of Algoma Steel Corporation, commenting on the competitive situation at the company's annual meeting at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Thursday, said there is no likelihood of a steel price rise in Canada in the near future. He predicted Canadian prices would remain stable because of the "ever-present alternatives of other materials and because the fabricated steel products made by our customers are undergoing severe competition."

Foreign steels, which he described as the cheapest in years, are also a factor.

The built-in incentive was the idea of Leningrad school girls who helped design the machine. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Saturday.

The machine looks like a TV set. A question and three possible answers appear on its screen. The student has to choose one answer and press a button. The machine signals "right" or "wrong" and keeps a tally of the marks.

New Election In Jordan After Pro-Nasser Rioting

AMMAN (AP)—King Hussein has ordered election of a new Jordan Parliament in an effort to restore peace to his troubled land, torn by pro-Nasser demonstrators demanding union with Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

Moving swiftly as police and army gunfire continued to echo in Amman, Hussein dissolved Parliament Sunday and named his great uncle, Sherif Hussein ibn Nasser, caretaker premier to manage the government until elections are held within four months.

The new premier succeeds Samir Rifai whose government fell Saturday after 34 days in office. Rifai, an advocate of Arab unity, resigned after 31 of the 60 members of the House of Deputies voted against his administration on a vote of confidence.

Premier Hussein met with his new cabinet Sunday night, then told reporters his government will "strike with an iron rod" against anyone who disturbs the peace.

He said his interim regime has only one task—to supervise free general elections.

This, he said, will give Jordan a House of Deputies "which can reflect the real will of the people toward their supreme objectives in reaching an understanding with sister Arab states and achieving Arab unity or federation."

Hussein said the deputies, by voting down Rifai's pro-Nasser policy, showed they did not represent the true will of the people. The 30-member Senate named by the king, was not affected by the dissolution order. The Jordan monarch has indicated he would like to bring his country into the new United Arab Republic, but President Nasser has made clear that he thinks Arab unity is for republics, not monarchies. Nasser has been a bitter enemy of the royal regimes in Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Troops shot into the air here Sunday to scatter demonstrators demanding that Jordan join the U.A.R. Hussein cheered, however, when he saw through the capital in an effort to restore peace to his troubled land, torn by pro-Nasser demonstrators demanding union with Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

Mr. K. Hands Out Warning "Berlin Before Disarmament"

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned today that settlement of the problem of divided Germany, and especially Berlin, must take precedence over disarmament and other burning world issues.

Only if this East-West question is solved, he told the newspaper Il Giorno, others would fall into place.

Khrushchev blamed the United States for everything going wrong, and especially the deadlocked disarmament negotiations.

If the United States would just accept the Soviet Union's word without insisting on inspections, the premier said, an agreement to end nuclear tests could easily be negotiated.

He also repeated the Soviet threat, made at Geneva, to withdraw its offer of two or three nuclear inspections a year if the United States continued to insist on seven or eight.

He himself, said Khrushchev, did not believe in God, but those who did—obviously meaning President Kennedy—had the moral duty not to build nuclear weapons.

DENOUNCES U.S. ACTION

The Soviet leader denounced the stationing of nuclear submarines to the Mediterranean, "almost under the walls of the Vatican," despite the peace pleas of Pope John.

He claimed the subs and the U.S. insistence on sending nuclear warheads to Canada were intended to divert any Soviet reprisals from the United States to its allies.

Khrushchev's action in granting to an Italian journalist was considered strategically timed to affect Italian parliamentary elections next Sunday. Il Giorno is owned by the State Oil Company and supports Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists.

In Washington, U.S. officials said they found nothing particularly new in Khrushchev's statements.

Khrushchev said the easing of the Cuban crisis had led to an easing of the cold war. He blamed this on America.

CONTINUE OLD POLICY

"In the United States," he claimed, "there are forces which continue the old policy of from a position of strength!" ... the unrestrained campaign staged by the angry men in the United States and launched against a sovereign state, Cuba, and the support offered by certain American circles to maritime robbery and to piracy in the Caribbean Sea are in fact the manifestations of this policy."

Speaking of his troubles with Communist China, Khrushchev said the current debate between Moscow and Peking is an internal affair and will only lead to a strengthening of relations.

Israeli Leader Growing Weaker

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi was reported growing weaker today. The 73-year-old chief of state has cancer of the liver and stomach.

A medical bulletin also said he passed "a very restless night." His wife read to him from the Bible.

Ben-Zvi began a third five-year term as president last October.

Helmets A Must For Hockey Players

TORONTO (CP)—All players from tykes to juveniles in the Toronto Hockey League and its affiliated divisions must wear either head guards or helmets in future.

The ruling was made Saturday at the 52nd annual meeting of the THL. About 200 delegates—representing 1,370 teams and more than 30,000 players associated with the league—attended the meeting.

Goalkeepers were given a choice between face masks or a helmet. The league also made skate guards mandatory in all series.

It's something I've often thought about. And I've never yet been able to figure out why men who are 65 should have such difficulty getting automobile insurance—and at regular rates. Although you probably have a number of years to go before you're 65, you no doubt hope to be driving long after. So isn't now the time to establish that good driving record with Wawanesa? Visit To Vault Proves Fatal

WOLKERSDORF, Austria (AP)—A 23-year-old man died of starvation Sunday night after he had been trapped for 13 days in an empty grave vault at the local cemetery.

Police said Johann Schleifer, a jobless worker who suffered from mental depression, apparently climbed into the grave vault April 7.

He was discovered Saturday when visitors to the cemetery heard moaning and sounds of scratching.

Police said Schleifer apparently shifted the heavy marble slabs covering the grave to climb into the vault and was trapped when they fell back into place.

Boys' Club Sport Show "Best Ever"

This year's third annual Boys' Club sports show is the best we have ever presented, club president Don M. White said Saturday night.

"Our total attendance for the three-day show was well over 3,500. Saturday's attendance more than equaled the combined total of the first two days, Thursday and Friday, with approximately 1,700 people admitted to the afternoon matinee and evening shows."

"The success of this show depended mainly on the full co-operation of the executive members of the club," said Mr. White. "We are all exceptionally pleased with its success."

"We hope next year's show will be even bigger and better. Many of the businessmen said they would like to see more sport available for their displays. To me that is an indication of this year's success."

NET RETURN
The Boys' Club will net over $3,000, said Mr. White. "All monies realized will go towards the club operating expenses."

"Our main objective," he said, "is to enlarge our present premises to provide space for a physical fitness class. We eventually want to own our own building."

Mr. White expressed special thanks to club director Herb Sullivan, the ladies' auxiliary to the boys' club and to other directors who assisted in the show.

"I think one of the finest displays in the whole show," said Mr. White, "was the provincial Recreation and Conservation department. Fish and Game Branch, display booth operated by Don Ellis of Kelowna and George Ferguson of Kamloops. I think their emphasis on freer safety was of exceptional value to the general public."

PANCAKES

Several members of the Kelowna Boy Scout Troop were busy during Saturday evening cooking extra large pancakes that were handed out to the people. A little later four of these pancakes were taken on the entertainment stage and four youngsters participated in a pancake eating contest won by Raymond Zahara of Kelowna. The other three boys participating were Bob McFarlane, Leonard Ripple and Mark Hamilton, all of Kelowna.

Members of the Kelowna pistol, fencing, judo and wrestling clubs each provided 15 minutes of entertainment during the evening show.

WINNERS

A. B. Dawson of R.R. 1, Kelowna, was the winner of the Saturday grand prize draw of $200 worth of merchandise. Mr. Dawson was not present when the draw was made.

Winner of the 15-foot aluminum boat chosen by special guest Ted Peck, of Vancouver, was K. H. Potter of Oliver.

Mr. Potter's name was drawn from over 13,000 official entries.

Winner of the 20-pound spring salmon was Mrs. Pat Brown, of Kelowna.

Five Enlist For St. John

Five people have applied so far for training as instructors for a St. John Ambulance Society first aid course in Kelowna, society official J. D. Thorne said today.

"We'd like a dozen instructors if we can get them," he said.

Mr. Thorne said the society would bring an instructor from Vancouver for the Kelowna instructors' course. He said the instructors' course would entail a minimum of 16 hours instruction, probably two nights a week for four weeks.

Applicants for the positions must have a first aid certificate, he said. The course to be conducted will not deal with first aid and will confine itself to techniques of instruction.

"Before, if we wanted to run a first aid course, we had to import instructors," he said. "If we can train our own instructors right in the area, this will no longer be a problem."

Mr. Thorne said persons applying for instruction posts would be screened and given an aptitude test.

Five Teachers At Conference

Among the 1,300 teachers attending the 1963 B.C. Teachers' Convention in Vancouver this week were Helen Lee of Knox School, Mrs. Grace E. Funk of Rutland Secondary School, David Webster of Kelowna Senior Secondary School, Charles Hopper, principal of the Rutland Elementary School and Miss Judith Myrtle, representing the Primary Teachers' Association.

Mr. Lee said the main theme of the conference was the work of teachers and their working conditions since revision report began to take effect.

He said delegates felt "a mighty job of revision" was necessary for school curricula.

During their conference, the teachers passed resolutions dealing with report cards, examinations, June closing of schools, holidays and curriculum revision.

He said the chamber was aiming for at least 50 new members during the campaign drive in the community who will not benefit from a strong chamber of commerce.

Chamber secretary-manager S. J. Healey presented a list of 129 Kelowna businesses and professions. He gave each member of the chamber work and the membership committee a list of names to get as many hits as possible.

Fruit Growers Discuss Storage

A total of 63 delegates from district councils of the B.C. Fruit Growers Association are meeting in Pentecost today to discuss implementation of controlled atmosphere storage in the Okanagan Valley.

The session began at 10 a.m. and during the morning R. P. Walrod, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits, Carl Stevenson, sales manager of B.C. Tree Fruits and Dr. S. W. Porritt, Summerland research station, addressed the delegates.

Before the group is a resolution to build storage facilities for this year's crop. The meeting will continue all day.

BEST DESIGN
If a plan to construct Controlled Atmosphere storage units in the Okanagan is approved, the "best designed C.A. storage possible at the lowest cost" will be built, R. P. Walrod, told the meeting.

Mr. Walrod said steps would be taken, if the plan was approved, "to see it is operated at a level of efficiency which will reduce risks of storage loss to a minimum."

Construction of controlled atmosphere installations should be made in two stages he said, the first providing a 135,000 box unit at Kelowna in 1963 and installation of a second unit of a similar size in Vernon in 1964.

POSITION CHALLENGED
Mr. Walrod said controlled atmosphere storage methods had made it possible for growers in Eastern Canada to "challenge our position here" in the industry.

He said investigation by a committee set up by B.C.T.F. had merited "centralized, industry-owned storages, at least during the first stage of B.C.'s expansion into the cold storage field."

HOLIDAY PERIOD COMES TO END FOR 6,140 DISTRICT STUDENTS

A total of 6,140 students returned to public and separate schools today following the ten day Easter holiday.

"Six thousand pupils returned to 29 schools in school district 23," said F. J. Orme, school district 23 superintendent today.

"Two hundred and forty teachers returned to their posts for the final two and a half months of the 1962-63 school term."

"Report cards will be sent out by most schools within the next two weeks. Some were issued prior to the holidays."

"The next and last holiday in this term is four weeks away on Queen Victoria Day. The two month summer holidays will come up in 38 days for secondary students and 47 days for elementary pupils. High school students will write exams at the end of the 38 days," Mr. Orme said.

At Immaculate school, 140 students returned with an increase of one pupil, said Father Francis Goderis, Immaculate principal today.

More Sunshine Forecast For Area

More sunshine is expected over the Kelowna area today as present cloudy conditions are expected to decrease gradually during the day.

The weather office in Vancouver reports cloud, that formed during the night over most of southern B.C., will decrease gradually during the day and much the same sequence of events is expected Tuesday.

In northern areas there are only scattered patches of cloud. There will, however, be increasing cloudiness this afternoon in advance of a minor disturbance and there will probably be some shower activity overnight and Tuesday, particularly along the coast.

High and low temperatures recorded in Kelowna over the weekend were: Friday 59 and 39; Saturday 60 and 33; and Sunday 63 and 42.

Temperatures recorded in Kelowna on the same dates last year were 72 and 42; 61 and 45 and 68 and 43.

Wedding Customs Are Steeped In Tradition

Spring means weddings, more of them at least, and the wedding ceremony is bound up with and surrounded by many traditions and customs, although not many of the participants have any idea of why the customs are observed or from whence they came.

Take, for instance, the tying of old shoes and tin cans to the back of the newlywed couple's car. How many know this is a carryover from age-old marriage rites and probably had parallels in primordial times? How many know it is still a custom among primitive tribes to roar, yell, beat drums and make noise when the bride couple takes off to start their new life? The idea is to scare the wits out of the demons, and when friends of the bride and groom are subconsciously performing the same rite when they turn the wedding couple's car into a mobbed boiler factory.

This same ancient rite was reflected in the "shivaree"—properly, charivari—which used to be common in eastern Canada and perhaps still is. Friends used to whoop and holler, shoot guns and generally raise a rumpus on the marriage night and kept it up until the bride and groom got up and provided them with food and drink. When evolution of the car made complete escape possible on the wedding night, the charivari was switched to the first night of the couple's return from the honeymoon. Wonder if they still do it in Ontario?

The shoes aspect of a wedding celebration has a long tradition but the modern adoption was originally a kindly gesture. The early cars had a new-fangled internal combustion engine that wasn't exactly reliable and there was always a distinct possibility the young couple might have to walk home.

Throwing rice at weddings is also steeped in tradition. It is really an ancient fertility rite adopted from China. Grains of rice, the source of life itself in China, were practically revered by the Chinese.

The term "giving the bride away" comes from when the girl in question was placed on the auction block. She wasn't exactly "given" as usually her father got a pretty good price for her. Carrying the bride over the threshold stems from the happy days of club and muscle. The hero simply swatted a good-looking gal over the head and dragged her off to his home.

The honeymoon in the long-ago days was more a matter of expediency than romance. When a young man snatched a girl from her family it was often advisable for him to depart rather fast and to stay out of sight for a period. The word itself comes from moon (or month) and honey. In old England, the groom would hide from his unappreciative in-laws for about a month. During this period he found it pleasant to fortify himself with large dollops of mead, and ancient and potent revitalizer made from honey.

Then there is the belief that the wedding ring is just a smaller and more expensive replica of fetters. It is worn on the wife's left hand because the right hand represents the authority reserved for the husband.

And of course, the throwing of the bridal bouquet. This decorous and decorative tradition gradually replaced a much more interesting French custom. Early in the 14th century, the bride's unwed girl friends were after a part of her actual apparel, the stays that held up her stockings. Naturally the bride's departure for her new home turned into a violent garter-snatching sortie.

The western world has not as yet adopted the most unusual wedding custom which is still practiced by the Brahmans in South India. They insist that the oldest boy in the family marry before his younger brothers. However, if true love burned in a young brother's breast while his older brother bided his time, there was a unique solution to break the deadlocked wedding. The kindly Brahman family simply married the oldest son to a tree. This allowed his kid brother to more or less branch out.

Plans To Control Weather Riddled With Drawbacks

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—In this theoretical situation, big Russian cargo planes have managed to slip through North America's radar defences and are circling the Arctic ice cap. The planes drop hundreds of tons of pulverized dust on to the ice cap until it's covered with a black blanket, a fraction of an inch thick. The planes head back to Russia.

The rays of the sun, absorbed by the black blanket, begin to melt the multi-million-square-mile ice pack. Over the months and years following, the waters from the melted pack rush down along the Pacific and Atlantic shorelines—flooding coastal cities.

Warm air and moisture, rising now from the open, warmed-up Arctic Ocean, mix cold air in the winter months with cold air from adjacent continents. This creates cyclones over large areas, deposits heavier snowfalls than usual on coastal areas, increases the size of existing glaciers and causes new ones to form.

Eventually a new "ice age" prevails—extending from Arctic regions east to the middle latitudes. Fantastic and impractical? Of course.

BIG SOWING JOB
For one thing, it would take more than 1,500,000,000 tons of coal dust to cover the ice pack with a blanket only one-fiftieth of an inch thick. That's more than twice the annual output of all U.S. coal mines.

Spreading the blanket would require hundreds of planes for only a single application. There would have to be repeated sorties because the dust would blow away.

Even if those drawbacks were surmounted, the Russians themselves would suffer from the resultant floods and ice age. Yet the spreading of soot on the Arctic ice pack is one of the bizarre things that have been suggested seriously as a means of giving man control over the weather.

Knowledgeable meteorologists have challenged the feasibility and practicality of the Arctic soot-sowing idea. They've also lambasted other sensational ideas—such as using H-bombs to melt the ice pack. They point out that it would take 4,000,000 H-bombs just to melt the Greenland ice pack alone.

IDEA PERSISTS
Still, the idea of making broad, remote-controlled changes in weather and climate continues to persist. Vice-Admiral William Raborn, the U.S. Navy's research chief, said in a recent article in a Navy publication:

"The possibilities for the military employment of the 'weather weapon' may be as diverse as they are numerous. 'Large-scale weather control techniques might eventually be used to cause extensive flooding of strategic areas or even bring a new 'ice age' on the enemy.' Raborn didn't say how he thought such an ice age might be created.

Top civilian meteorologists feel science has not yet learned, in dependable fashion, to modify or control weather artificially on a local scale—let alone trying to do it on the global scale that might be required for engineering the weather as a weapon.

Much more knowledge of nature's own ways of "making" the weather and climate must be acquired before man can hope to control them with any significance, even in a limited way, for either peaceful or military purposes.

There are any attempts to affect large-scale changes, without having such knowledge of nature's tricks, might boomerang disastrously on a nation initiating them and harm millions throughout the world.

MAKE NEW SUN
Russian scientists, claiming interest only in the humanitarian aspects of weather control, have suggested such things as:

1. Putting an artificial sun in orbit around the earth. This presumably would consist of a gigantic thermonuclear furnace that might allow sunlike influences on the weather in any part of the world.

2. Melting the Arctic ice cap by damming up the Bering Straits and forcing relatively warm Pacific Ocean water into the Arctic basin with nuclear-powered pumps.

3. Levelling mountain ranges with nuclear explosives in order to change the climate to their leeward.

And from other sources more ideas have come up. One sees the Arctic ice cap melted by exploding H-bombs in open areas of the Arctic Ocean. The resultant steam would be supposed to create a five-mile-thick ice crystal cloud which in turn would keep infra-red heat from leaving the earth, thereby melting the ice.

Underwater nuclear explosions have been suggested to change the topography of the ocean bottom, causing shifts in the climate-controlling Gulf Stream in the Atlantic and the Japanese Current in the Pacific.

RAIN FOR DESERT
It was suggested passages in the Sierra Nevada mountains

could be opened with nuclear detonations to permit passage of moist air into the Nevada desert.

One idea is to use rockets to hurl into orbit hundreds of tons of man-made "meteoric dust." The latter would be designed to spread around certain parts of the world, interfering with the usual solar radiation and possibly increasing rainfall in certain areas.

Since 1958, the U.S. National Science Foundation has conducted research in weather modification. NSF scientists say there is statistical evidence that under certain conditions seeding of clouds with chemicals is associated with some increase in rainfall.

But they also say full scientific proof as to the value of cloud seeding is still lacking and "we don't know yet whether significant economic benefit can be arrived at with such techniques."

Research has ranged from new studies of cloud seeding techniques to a venture in Urbana, Ill., with an "electrical wind." The latter was generated by sparking a high voltage in two four-mile lengths of electric wire criss-crossed 30 feet above the ground. The "wind" shot upwards into a passing cloud, producing some rain.

WATCH WORLD SCENE
The foundation also keeps tabs on weather-control studies all over the world, including:

1. Russian reports of using powerful sound generators atop mountain peaks to study the possibility of using sound waves to increase rainfall.

2. Reports of Communist Chinese attempts to accelerate the melting of glaciers in North Central China by blackening the glacial surfaces with coal dust or burned grass and wood.

3. Mail-suppression research in Argentina, employing 20 silver-iodide generators located on the east slope of the Andes. The generators burn iodine-impregnated charcoal placed in wire baskets inside a chimney.

But NSF scientists say that no sensational breakthroughs have been achieved either in the United States or abroad, as far as is known.

"It is clearly evident," says Dr. Alan T. Waterman, NSF director, "that a truly formidable scientific problem must be solved before we can learn how to control local weather effectively or modify the climate. However, this problem may be no more formidable than problems that have been solved by this generation of scientists in other fields, such as the degree of control we have over nuclear energy."

could be opened with nuclear detonations to permit passage of moist air into the Nevada desert.

One idea is to use rockets to hurl into orbit hundreds of tons of man-made "meteoric dust." The latter would be designed to spread around certain parts of the world, interfering with the usual solar radiation and possibly increasing rainfall in certain areas.

Since 1958, the U.S. National Science Foundation has conducted research in weather modification. NSF scientists say there is statistical evidence that under certain conditions seeding of clouds with chemicals is associated with some increase in rainfall.

But they also say full scientific proof as to the value of cloud seeding is still lacking and "we don't know yet whether significant economic benefit can be arrived at with such techniques."

Research has ranged from new studies of cloud seeding techniques to a venture in Urbana, Ill., with an "electrical wind." The latter was generated by sparking a high voltage in two four-mile lengths of electric wire criss-crossed 30 feet above the ground. The "wind" shot upwards into a passing cloud, producing some rain.

WATCH WORLD SCENE
The foundation also keeps tabs on weather-control studies all over the world, including:

1. Russian reports of using powerful sound generators atop mountain peaks to study the possibility of using sound waves to increase rainfall.

2. Reports of Communist Chinese attempts to accelerate the melting of glaciers in North Central China by blackening the glacial surfaces with coal dust or burned grass and wood.

3. Mail-suppression research in Argentina, employing 20 silver-iodide generators located on the east slope of the Andes. The generators burn iodine-impregnated charcoal placed in wire baskets inside a chimney.

But NSF scientists say that no sensational breakthroughs have been achieved either in the United States or abroad, as far as is known.

"It is clearly evident," says Dr. Alan T. Waterman, NSF director, "that a truly formidable scientific problem must be solved before we can learn how to control local weather effectively or modify the climate. However, this problem may be no more formidable than problems that have been solved by this generation of scientists in other fields, such as the degree of control we have over nuclear energy."

Immunity In Blood

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son was sick constantly, had high fevers and respiratory infections until he was given gamma globulin injections.

The treatments have been stopped, but he has a cold now and I am afraid his resistance is getting low. What causes the gamma globulin level to be reduced? —MRS. E. S.

Our bodies acquire certain particles which fight disease germs. That's how vaccination works. The vaccine is a modified (sometimes killed) germ which, however, has the ability to instigate the growth in the blood of the particles which can combat that particular type.

These protective particles, or antibodies, concentrate in a portion of the blood serum (the liquid part of the blood) which we call gamma globulin.

This much we know. Some of the further explanations of the whole process remain unknown, but are being studied intensively.

Obviously many of us have acquired immunity to various diseases. This immunity is lodged in the blood—in the gamma globulin.

Therefore, if when a person has been exposed to some disease, we inject gamma globulin (either from a person already known to have acquired immunity to that disease or from a group of people, at least some of whom have acquired immunity), we give the recipient the temporary benefit of this ability to combat germs, or infections.

This has been done with polio; is being done with measles and infectious hepatitis. It helps—temporarily. The injected gamma globulin does not remain indefinitely.

I don't know why your own little boy is deficient in this respect. Whether he lacks sufficient gamma globulin, or merely has not developed sufficient antibody particles within the gamma globulin, becomes too technical a problem.

He received temporary support in his defenses against colds and such infections. It may be that, with such help, he has since been able to establish his own defense, which will be more lasting.

His defenses will be built only as he is exposed to the various germs which exist, and he develops antibodies to fight them.

We cannot always tell why some people can develop these defenses faster than others. But only a fairly short number of years ago we wouldn't have known that gamma globulin injections would help.

A complete answer is not yet possible. But you and your son are profiting by one phase of our constantly increasing health knowledge.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is wrong when a person is hungry all the time? When I finish dinner I feel as though I hadn't eaten —B.B.

The likeliest cause is that you aren't eating the right things, and your system is trying to tell you so. Do you get plenty of protein? Fresh and cooked vegetables, including green, leafy ones? Fruit and fruit juices? Protein has great satiety value. It satisfies hunger. The vegetables and fruit provide bulk. You may have hyperacidity or excessively rapid emptying of the stomach. Try eating more slowly. Hyperacidity can be lessened by sedative drugs taken before meals. Another cause is low blood sugar, which can be corrected by diet.

NOTE TO D. G.: I don't think "hormone" face creams perform any wonders other than those afforded by any good facial cream. I know of one case in which a hair tonic containing "hormones" had unpleasant effects.

Foreign Legion Without A War

By FINLAY CAMPBELL

MARSEILLES (Reuters)—Fr the first time since it was founded 131 years ago, the French Foreign Legion has no battles to fight—and few prospects of any in the future.

The main occupation of this fighting corps, which has distinguished itself in battlefields as far apart as Mexico, the Crimea, Indochina and northern Norway, is to set up new headquarters at Aubagne, near this French Mediterranean port.

In addition to renovating and improving the camp, the legionnaires have transferred the library, records and museum from former headquarters at Sidi-Bel-Abbes, in western Algeria, to Aubagne.

FUTURE IN DOUBT
Many rumors have since circulated here as to the future of the legion.

When King Louis-Philippe established the legion in 1831 the decree setting it up defined its mission as "to serve outside the kingdom." When Algeria, last of France's big possessions, became independent last July, it looked as though this mission no longer existed.

In addition, the first parachute regiment of the legion was implicated in the attempted "generals' putsch" in Algiers in April, 1961.

The officers were disciplined, the regiment dissolved and the men absorbed into other regiments. With at least part of the legion thus identified with the abortive "coup d'etat" in Algeria, rumors began to circulate that it would be disbanded.

However, Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer recently told Parliament: "We do not envisage dissolving the legion. The personnel of the legion will be adapted to new missions."

In addition to the units now at Aubagne, there are others in Corsica, Madagascar, French Somaliland and a few still in Algeria.

LOSSES HEAVY
During the Indochinese war, the legion was at its peak strength of nearly 40,000. About 14,000 legionnaires were killed in that campaign. Their losses in the Algerian war are given at about 2,000.

Officially, the present strength of the legion is secret. But officers say that an estimate of 15,000 men is "not far from the truth."

Some 40 per cent are Germans, with a high percentage of Hungarians and Yugoslavs. The remainder are Scandinavians, Italians, Spaniards and other Europeans with a handful of English and Americans.

Although officially Frenchmen are not accepted, hundreds serve in the legion by posing as Belgians or Swiss, for the recruit is never asked to prove his identity.

About 1,000 men a month apply to join the legion.

Steel Price Drama Overshadows Rest

NEW YORK (AP)—A new steel price drama unfolded this week. It overshadowed all other business developments.

The curtain rose on the suspenseful situation when relatively small Wheeling Steel Corp. announced a selective price increase averaging $6 a ton.

The action of Wheeling, ranking No. 11 in production, came exactly a year after another price increase ignited a blazing battle between President Kennedy and the steel industry.

This time it seemed unlikely that the new boost held the makings of another sharp dispute between the White House and the steelmakers.

After delaying his vacation trip to Florida for a day to study the situation, Kennedy issued a statement that was interpreted as conciliatory.

While he said he opposed a general price increase, the door was left open for selective increases. "This administration is not interested in determining the appropriate price or profit levels of any particular industry," he said.

He added that "selected price adjustments, up or down, as prompted by changes in supply and demand, are opposed in across-the-board increases, are not incompatible with a framework of general stability and steel-price stability, and are characteristic of any healthy economy."

The steelmakers had yet to indicate which way they would swing—whether they would stand pat on current prices, join Wheeling in selective boosts or try again for a general advance.

Ever since defeat in the last effort steel executives have been stressing that the industry needs more profits to invest in modern plants and equipment to compete with foreign steel and with such domestic products as aluminum, glass and plastics.

If the price increase should become general, some manufacturers said they, too, would be forced to raise prices on their products. And if inflation rears, some economists saw the likelihood that the U.S. trade and monetary position could be upset.

Meanwhile, steel production boomed at about 80 per cent of industry capacity. Output last week increased for the 10th week and was the highest in almost a year.

Automobile production continued to zoom with output this week estimated at 154,000 passenger cars against 150,787 last week and 141,201 a year ago.

BIBLE BRIEF
What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light; and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops. — Matthew 10:27.

The Lord's message was never intended to be a secret for the benefit of a few. If we do not tell it, it is the same as keeping it a secret.

Bumps For Highways

Someone has suggested that bumps be used to replace traffic policemen. One residential area in Seattle has experimented apparently successfully with bumps to control speed entirely without the help of police officers.

In that Seattle section bumps that can be negotiated comfortably at the posted speed have been installed in the roadway. Anything faster and the car bounces and shimmy until the driver is forced to slow down.

If the system is successful, there are a number of places where bumps might be installed. The approaches to school zones would be natural. The same would be true of hospitals and churches, although the latter would preferably be removable for installation only on Sundays. But the likeliest suggestion would be to put the bumps on stretches of roadway where posted speed limits are particularly unrealistic and hence more liable to violation.

The idea may have its good points but why go to all that trouble and expense? Why not just let the streets and highways deteriorate until nature and the traffic provide the bumps? We were always under the impression that the idea was eliminate the potholes or bumps (what's in a name?) but apparently we are now to revert back to the corduroy road with either man-made or nature made bumps.

What price, indeed, a good highway system? Why bother to build good roads if they are to be bumped into uselessness?

Even if those drawbacks were surmounted, the Russians themselves would suffer from the resultant floods and ice age. Yet the spreading of soot on the Arctic ice pack is one of the bizarre things that have been suggested seriously as a means of giving man control over the weather.

Knowledgeable meteorologists have challenged the feasibility and practicality of the Arctic soot-sowing idea. They've also lambasted other sensational ideas—such as using H-bombs to melt the ice pack. They point out that it would take 4,000,000 H-bombs just to melt the Greenland ice pack alone.

IDEA PERSISTS
Still, the idea of making broad, remote-controlled changes in weather and climate continues to persist. Vice-Admiral William Raborn, the U.S. Navy's research chief, said in a recent article in a Navy publication:

"The possibilities for the military employment of the 'weather weapon' may be as diverse as they are numerous. 'Large-scale weather control techniques might eventually be used to cause extensive flooding of strategic areas or even bring a new 'ice age' on the enemy.' Raborn didn't say how he thought such an ice age might be created.

Top civilian meteorologists feel science has not yet learned, in dependable fashion, to modify or control weather artificially on a local scale—let alone trying to do it on the global scale that might be required for engineering the weather as a weapon.

Much more knowledge of nature's own ways of "making" the weather and climate must be acquired before man can hope to control them with any significance, even in a limited way, for either peaceful or military purposes.

There are any attempts to affect large-scale changes, without having such knowledge of

ANN LANDERS

His Problem Emotional

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with my husband? He's a middle-aged self-made man. But he hates rules and regulations and breaks them whenever he can.

If there's a sign that says, "No Smoking," he lights up at once. "Keep Off The Grass" is an invitation. I've seen him step right over a sign and stomp on the newly seeded lawn just for the devil of it. When a sign says "Rub, Don't Blot," he blots. Recently we bought a mattress which had a label on it saying "Don't remove this label." He got the scissors and cut it off.

All this is maddening but when he breaks traffic regulations I go out of my mind. He's been stopped for speeding four times this year. He makes a game out of lying to the officer and tries to talk his way out of a ticket.

Please tell me why he is like this and what can I do about it. MAURIED TO A NUT.

Dear Ann Landers: "The Nut" has emotional problems which go back many years. People who delight in breaking rules just to see if they can get away with it are still trying to put one over on me and pay. The poor guy is a case of arrested development. He needs professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I need advice and fact. This is a second marriage for both my husband and me. I'm raising my husband's two children by his first wife. I have two children by my first husband.

His youngsters were very young when we married and mine were, too. We saw no reason to tell them they were step brothers and sisters. Everything was fine until a few weeks ago when our next door neighbors' son told our children they are step brothers and sisters. Now my husband's children look up at our two and the four are forever quarreling and fighting.

Why can't neighbors mind their own business? That little brat's loose lip is wrecking our family. Can you help?

MOTHER AND STEP-MOTHER. Dear Mother: It would be nice indeed if neighbors kept their noses out of other people's business. But this isn't the way the world works.

Anyone who counts on the closed mouths of neighbors or friends is leaning on a slender reed.

Please don't heap all the blame on the mouthy little neighbor kid. The truth is that directly and early by you and your husband could have prevented this mess.

At this point I can suggest only patience, fairness and affection.

Kelowna WI Hold Successful Sale

The Kelowna Women's Institute held a successful tea, bake and fancy work sale, and a draw for a beautiful doll dressed by Mrs. R. T. Knox, Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Knox, convener of the ways and means committee, arranged an interesting program which was enjoyed by everyone. Members are grateful to Miss Pratten whose pupils, Debbie Brownlee and Louise Markle, danced a Dutch dance, and Kendra Scott and Laura Markle who danced "Over the Border to Charlie" and "The Highland Fling."

Thanks go also to Mrs. Hillman for her interesting monologues, and to Mrs. Phipps for her delightful song, and to all who helped make the afternoon a success.

With Mrs. Bregolis presiding, Very Rev. R. D. Anderson opened the meeting with the League Prayer. Miss Hromek read the minutes of the previous meeting, following with the correspondence, and Miss Ward presented the treasurer's report.

Miss F. Heron reported on membership and Mrs. Mayer reported on sanctuary work. Mrs. D. Pettigrew stated that 60 patients had been visited at the hospital. Mrs. Diederichs reported that a spiritual retreat was being held. His Excellency Bishop Doyle on the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Mrs. Denegre reported on the various activities of the Girl Guides.

Miss L. Ward reported that St. Francis Xavier Circle had received 25 pounds of literature, and Mrs. Amundrud, mission convener, stated that four pounds of stamps had been sent to the Sisters of the Precious Blood. 'Let Them Eat Cake' In Modern Version

"Let them eat cake," the infamous 18th century quote from Marie Antoinette when told the people of Paris were without bread, has been given a new interpretation by a B.C. woman. A recipe taken from a UN cook book will produce a cake a month, and the pieces will be sold individually at the monthly meeting of the Sayward Women's Institute. Proceeds from the sale of the cake will go to the Unitarian Service Committee, 76 Sparks Street, Ottawa, to feed starving children overseas.

ENTRANCING NAME

Although she has never left Korea, the face of an eight-year-old Korean girl is very familiar to children in grades V and VI at Mulvey School in Winnipeg. The little girl, Moon Im Kim, was "adopted" by the two classes, through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, and her picture hangs in all the rooms. "I think this is a worthwhile project," said Principal J. W. Chafe, "not only for the charity involved, but it lets our children know there are other people in the world less fortunate." The children are entranced by the name, Moon Im Kim, and think it has a musical sound.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

To celebrate her tenth birthday, a generous Halifax girl decided to share her presents with unfortunate children in other lands. Instead of the usual birthday tokens, each child was asked to bring a gift of money for overseas relief. A few days later, a birthday card with 12 names and a generous money order were sent to Unitarian Service Committee headquarters.

PLAY BRIDGE

The Kelowna Contract Bridge Club members and their friends will have the opportunity to assess their play against the champions on Wednesday next, when the Kelowna team will be pre-dealt and played at the club.

Play will commence at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 24, in the Regatta Room of the Mountain Shadows Golf and Country Club. Members and visitors are requested to arrange their own pairs prior to the session. Single players (members and visitors) requiring partners, please phone R. V. Thomas, 2-2267, before 6 p.m., Wednesday, April 24.

BROWNE TEST
Five Brownies from the Oyama group recently took their tests for their "Golden Hand." All of them were successful and passed with good marks so they will soon be flying up to Guides. Those taking the tests were Susan Stephen, Beverly Trewhitt, Patti Hayward, Wendy Crozman and Jennifer Eyles.

GUIDES ENROLLED
Three new Guides were enrolled in the Oyama Company last week at a very simple but impressive ceremony. The three recruits Donna Gingell, Shelly Thompson and Brenda Elliott were presented, by candle-light, to Captain, Mrs. A. Trewhitt who enrolled them. Guests of the evening were the five Brownies who have just completed their Golden Hand.

ANNUAL TEA

Mrs. S. Marty reported for the Lady-Jones Home that the Auxiliary was holding its annual tea on May 29. Mrs. D. Hower, reporting for the bazaar committee, said that the spring bazaar had been most successful. She thanked all who had assisted. Mrs. J. Olinger, social action convener, stated that three needy families had been assisted.

Following the election of officers the president thanked the nominating committee for their excellent work.

Very Rev. Father Anderson then addressed the meeting and congratulated and thanked the ladies who had accepted offices for the coming year. The President, Mrs. A. T. Bregolis then thanked all members, especially the executive for the great amount of work done. She expressed her gratitude to our Reverend Director for his council and assistance.

The door prize was won by Miss Hromek.

Unitarian Services Praises Efforts Of Oyama Women

The entire population of Oyama, B.C. is 600. But the local Kalamalka Women's Institute, 27 members in all, is among the most dynamic in Canada. In one afternoon's sewing bee, the women turned out 100 jackets, to complete layettes for the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada. The USC is urgently appealing for layettes for Greece, the Middle East and Hong Kong.

Five thousand infants in Greece, Korea and the Middle East were provided with winter warmth by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada last year. The USC, still an active member of the International Stork Club, is appealing for layettes for this year's crop of babies born to destitute mothers overseas. Information on "Operation Bountiful" is available at USC Headquarters, 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4.

Musical Treat At Winfield Given By Nelson Boys Choir

WINFIELD—A musical treat: Handel, and "Lead Me Lord." The audience thoroughly enjoyed the evening and obviously the boys enjoyed singing.

This choir was formed in 1931 under Mrs. Ferguson, the present director; for 25 years it was known as St. Paul's United Church choir and then it became a community choir. There are 50 boys in the choir, 22 of whom were on this tour. They sang Tuesday evening in Vancouver, Wednesday evening in New Westminster and Thursday evening in Winfield. Miss Beverly Matheson was the accompanist.

The concert was sponsored by the United Church Women and the 22 boys were bussed in from homes in the district. The varied program began with the choir singing "This Joyful Easter" by A. Somerset and "Deo Gratias" by Harold E. Watts. This was followed by a solo "Schule Nennen Sichert Weiden" by J. S. Bach, sung by John Campbell, boy soprano.

The choir then sang "Last Supper" from Kuchengessung, "God is a Spirit" by Sterndale Bennett, Martin Harris with baritone, song "The Sun Shall Be No More Thy Light" by Dr. M. Green, and a trio of John Campbell, Don Clark and John Stewart sang "Lift Him High" by Mendelssohn.

The choir followed with "Come Ever Singing Liberty", traditional.

EASTER BAZAAR

Baskets of forty-five and fifty-five cents each table and set a pretty scene for the annual Easter bazaar sponsored by St. Margaret's Guild in St. Margaret's Parish Hall recently.

Mrs. H. Chocoman and Mrs. W. Wilson were in charge of the home cooking stall which was well laden with home-baked pies, bread, cakes, cookies etc., while Mrs. E. Crowder and Mrs. N. Carter looked after the needlework stall which displayed aprons, pillow cases, tea-cosies, hand-made toys, etc.

The decorated baskets filled with home-baked cookies made and donated by Mrs. J. E. Sault were won jointly by Mr. W. Brudie, Miss C. Beasley and Mrs. R. Wentworth as each guessed its exact weight.

The Winfield ladies of the Guild were in charge of the kitchen while the Oyanagan ladies were in charge of decorating the hall and serving the tea.

Approximately $100 was realized by the bazaar. The next event for the ladies of St. Margaret's Guild is Tuesday, April 23, when they will sponsor a concert to the Vernon Male Choir under the direction of W. L. Nelson in the Oyanagan Community Hall.

Farrell Tops In Calcutta

The foursome of F. R. Farrell, E. N. Cripps, S. J. Jamieson and D. Currie took top honors Sunday when they finished first in the 18-hole final of the Colquhoun and Country Club.

Farrell's teams earned in a 12 under-par score to win the tournament, they were followed by only two other teams, Bob Taylor, Al Anderson and Bob Johnson who all finished the 18-hole course with 10 under-par.

A play off was played among the three teams. Bob Johnson's team was eliminated on the 17-hole to take fourth position. With only the two teams left, Farrell scored a birdie on the second hole to give his squad second position and Al Anderson took third.

There were no ace hole in the tournament but Bob Taylor sunk a 20 foot putt on the 18th green to record the only eagle of the Colquhoun.

Braves Try For Hickman "Forget It" Says Stengel

Said Casey Stengel to Milwaukee Braves:

You know that trade we were talking about, the one for the feller who plays in centre field? Well, who every time you see him this spring he was hitting the ball over the houses back of the palm trees in left field and you wanted to give me your catcher for him? Well, forget it.

So the Braves can forget about Jim Hickman, and that was the last of it.

Hickman drove in seven runs with 456-foot double and two homers, one a grand slam, as the Mets won a doubleheader from the Braves Sunday 8-3 and 8-2. The double win gave the Mets four straight for the first time in their history, and lifted them out of the National League cellar—the first time since last May 21.

San Francisco Giants held on to the top spot with a split against Chicago Cubs. The Cubs won the opener 4-1 and the Giants the second game 3-2.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals split with Philadelphia Phillies, losing 4-3 in 10 innings and winning 10-3. Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Houston Colts twice, 11-3 and 6-3, and Cincinnati Reds trampled Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3.

RAYMOND IS VICTIM

Richard's grand slam was the first game for the Mets. He hit it in the eighth inning of Claude Raymond of St. Jean, Que., with the Mets trailing 5-0. Ed Kranepool, 18-year-old rookie first baseman, singled Duke Snider home in the sixth inning of the second game for the go-ahead run off Lew Burdette. A hysterical, confetti-throwing crowd of 26,771 watched it up at the ancient Polo Grounds during the long afternoon.

Hickman now has 11 hits, seven for extra bases, and 1 RBI in nine games. He is batting .344, and all three of his homers have come against the Braves.

The Braves had coveted the centre fielder, who hit well against them the spring, and apparently were offering him to catcher Del Crandall for his services.

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey each hit his fourth home run for the Giants in the second game, and Tom Haller's single drove home the winning run. The opener Ken Hubbs singled home the Cubs' first run and homered in the fourth.

Tony Gonzalez doubled off the scoreboard in the 10th inning drive in the winning run for the Phillies in the opener against the Cards.

Winnipeg Gets U.S. Support

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Winnipeg's bid for the 1967 Pan American Games was expected to receive support from the United States today when the site selection committee meets to consider the candidates.

Winnipeg faces strong challenges from Caracas, Venezuela, and Santiago, Chile. The decision was put off from last Friday, but Mar Danzker, spokesman for the Winnipeg delegation, said "we are still very hopeful of getting the Games."

The Americans want Canada to get the games in return for support when the United States bids for the 1968 Summer Olympic Games next October in Nairobi, Kenya.

Douglas F. Roby of Detroit, chairman of the three-member site committee, acknowledged during the weekend that Canada was making a big drive to nail down its bid. But he said, "I would like to see Canada a

Another American member of the committee, Richard Cross of Detroit, president of American Motors, indicated also would support Winnipeg as the next site. Cross is the U.S. spokesman on the American Sports Organization executive committee. Its 15 delegates will make the final decision.

Roby and Cross are plump for Detroit as the site of the 1968 Summer Olympics but they will have to outbid Mexico City, Buenos Aires and Lyon, France when the International Olympic Committee gathers in Nairo-

The Kelowna Teamsters were handed a 3-1 drubbing Sunday by the Penticton Royaltes in a match which could have much to do with deciding the second

Two minutes after the game started, Penttinen opened the scoring when N. Holtz opened the scoring on a corner kick. Eight minutes later, Holtz scored his second goal on a header. This seemed to put the Teamsters off stride. The Royalists took control of the play and when the Teamsters got possession of the ball, bad passing and poor positional play cost them many chances.

The half ended with Penticton having a two goal bulge.

The Teamsters opened the second half with a rush after some team changes and started to put the pressure on. It wasn't until the 15-minute mark that the Teamsters hit the scoring sheet on a pass from Hutton to Polman who let go a terrific drive to the right hand corner for the first and only tally for the locals.

Dief Ranks Third For Time In Office

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker's Conservative ministry, A. Macdonald, totalling 18 moving out of office, ranks third among Conservative governments for length of stay in office.

Including Liberal governments since Confederation, Mr. Diefenbaker's five years and 10 months in office ranks seventh among the 18 separate administrations Canada has had under prime ministers.

The record life of a ministry is held by Liberal Sir Wilfrid Laurier, though it is topped by combining the two terms in of-Conservative Sir John A. Macdonald, totalling 18 years, and three administrations headed by Liberal W. J. Mackenzie King, 21 years and six months.

Sir Wilfrid was in office continuously for 15 years and three months from July, 1896 to October, 1911.

SOME WERE SHORT
The shortest-lived ministries were those headed by Conservatives Arthur Meighen, for three months in 1926, and Sir Charles Tupper, for three months in 1896.

There were three other Conservative ministries which lasted less than two years—Mr. Meighen's first government under the National Liberal and Conservative Party Union label in 1920-21, Sir J. J. Abbott in 1891-92, and Sir Mackenzie Bowell, from December, 1894, to April 1896.

Next to Laurier's government, the longest lived was the third cabinet Mr. King headed, 13 years and one month. That one took office on the defeat of Conservative R. B. Bennett in 1935 and continued until Mr. King's retirement from public life in 1948.

The third longest was Macdonald's second administration, lasting 11 years and eight months after the defeat of Canada's first Liberal prime minister, stonemason Alexander Macenzie, in 1878. That was the longest Conservative ministry. Next among Conservatives came Sir Robert Borden's government from 1911 to 1917, six years.

DIEF WANTS TO EMULATE
Both King and Macdonald returned to power after having been prime minister and spending a term in opposition. Mr. Diefenbaker has set his sights on repeating their performances.

Alexander Macenzie had four years and 11 months in office. King's first government lasted four years and six months before it resigned on June 28, 1926, after losing a number of procedural votes in a Commons in which it had only minority control.

After Meighen's three months, the King government was returned to power in a general election and continued for three years and 11 months before defeat by the Conservatives under Mr. Bennett in 1930. Mr. Bennett's government lasted five years and two months.

Other prime ministers' terms are Mr. Borden's two years and nine months as head of the Union government after the First World War, until 1920, and a Conservative administration led by Sir John Thompson which was in office for two years in 1892-94.

Need For Strict Controls On Funeral Schemes Stressed

EDMONTON (CP)—The need for strict regulations covering the operation of commercial cemeteries and prepaid funeral schemes was emphasized in the sharply worded report of the royal commission on pre-arranged funeral services in Alberta.

The commissioner, Chief Justice C. C. McLaurin of the Alberta Supreme Court trial division, said in his report some commercial cemeteries were creditable and well-maintained establishments but "this commission endorses legislation enacted in 1961 restricting cemetery operation to municipalities and religious organizations."

The report said commercial cemeteries in Grande Prairie, Camrose, Stettler and Drumheller are abandoned or defunct, and another in Edmonton is in almost the same condition.

"Grievous losses were sustained by the public in the operations of these defunct cemeteries which a careful pointed out the imperative need of rigorous policing," the chief justice said.

WITHHOLDS COMMENT
His report was released Friday by Premier E. C. Manning. The premier, also the province's attorney-general, said he would make no comment until next week.

The report mentioned the financial condition of three cemetery companies — the Calgary Garden of Memories Limited, Alto-Reste Memorial Gardens Limited of Red Deer, and Chapel Lawn Gardens Limited of Medicine Hat.

Garden of Memories was Alto-Reste was insolvent, and Chapel Lawn ignored a request from the commission for financial data.

"From information furnished, it is the opinion of the commission that the selling and collecting methods of these firms under review are indefensible."

CRITICIZES METHODS
"Selling is conducted in a high pressure fashion; many contracts are concluded on an instalment basis with a ridiculously small down payment, and an aggressive collection policy is pursued with the threat of legal proceedings if commitments are not met."

In a scathing reference to an advertising pamphlet distributed by the Calgary firm, he said: "This particular folder is nothing short of deceitful and illustrates the levels to which this concern will stoop for business."

The report said Thomas A. Patterson, representing the Calgary company at a commission hearing, had presented a movie film carried in a small box and adapted for operation in prospective customer's homes.

"This offensive film was calculated to play strongly with

Great Nuclear Debate Gains A Speaker — Mr. K

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev projected himself into the middle of the great Western debate over nuclear arms today, with his charge that the United States would expose its NATO allies to Soviet fire in order to divert some attack missiles from U.S. targets.

This effort by the Soviet premier to fan Allied fears against further deployment of U.S. nuclear weapons stands out as a major purpose of the 1000-word interview he gave stationing U.S. Powers submarines in the Mediterranean (most under the walls of the Vatican) and against American sharing of nuclear weapons with word was passed to the Kremlin. Khrushchev may also be laying the ground with his re-assertion of Soviet testing of nuclear weapons. He accused the U.S. and France of aggravating the situation by continuing test programs. A Russian which broke a three-year moratorium in 1961 ended its latest series last December.

The Soviet leader developed the theme that NATO and the Communist movement are striving for peace through a settlement of world problems, not by Berlin and disarmament. By contrast he pictured the NATO alliance as pursuing an aggressive strategy based on what he called a "positions of force" policy.

The White House said state department leaders had a detailed study of the Khrushchev interview today. Neither had any immediate comment when it was made public Sunday night.

NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS

How Canadian Nickel helped England's Hovercraft get off the ground

Hovercraft went into service last year in England, where they were invented and built. These strange craft actually ride on a cushion of air and, after take-off, are completely free of contact with the ground or water. Making the Hovercraft a reality called for great skill and the use of the finest materials. And, in this latter regard, Canadian nickel helped. Why nickel? Because it is strong, durable, corrosion resistant. Nickel is used in the Hovercraft's transmission system and hydraulic and fuel pipes; nickel-containing steels are used in the general structure, and heat-resisting nickel alloys are used extensively in the engines. The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide jobs for Canadians.

The Capital of Scotland, the city of Edinburgh, is the greatest star of its own Festival. The magnificence of Princes Street with the historic Castle high on its rock towering over the scene, remains in the memory for many years.

The Castle and the Palace of Holyroodhouse, which is the Queen's official residence in Edinburgh, are only two of the magnets which attract thousands of visitors each year. The famous Floral Clock, the Scott Monument, Princes Street Gardens are other attractions.

And while the visitor can spend weeks exploring Edinburgh itself, the city is also a first-class touring centre, with the Scott Country, Loch Lomond, the Trossachs and the Central Highlands all within easy reach.

Even when hotels are fully booked, excellent accommodation is available in hundreds of hospitable private homes at very modest cost. No one has ever had to stay away from Edinburgh because of lack of accommodation.

FESTIVAL GUILD

Founded in March 1961, the Edinburgh Festival Guild is an association of friends of the Festival. Membership (minimum subscription $3 a year) is open to all.

Already the greatest event of its kind in the world, the Edinburgh International Festival will this year be better than ever. For his third Festival, the Earl of Harewood as Artistic Director has engaged many of the world's finest artists, and has produced the largest and most varied programme of concerts, operas, plays and recitals to be seen anywhere.

Each evening there will be six or seven different events to choose from with artists drawn from Britain, Germany, France, the United States, Italy, Hungary and many other countries.

Packed into three weeks at Edinburgh will be performances by as many famous artists as could be seen only in six months of world travel.

NEXT YEAR'S FESTIVAL

The Eighteenth International Festival will be held from August 16 to September 5, 1964

GRANT DAVIS TENDS TO BUSINESS AT HIS DAVIS SHELL SERVICE

Grant Davis, newly appointed manager of the Shell service station at the corner of Harvey and Richter, comes from Weyburn, Saskatchewan. He succeeds Peter Russell, who managed the station when it was known as the Kelowna Shell Service.

Mr. Davis was born, raised and educated in Weyburn. During his high school days, he was very active in sports activities in the Weyburn area.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been married since 1940. Mrs. Davis is the former Kathleen Walker. She came from Alberta.

There are four children in the Davis family, two boys and two girls.

Patricia Ann, 21, is a hospital technician at Brockville General No. 12.

While living in Weyburn, Mr. Davis was active in many community affairs.

He served 13 years on the rural municipality council of Weyburn. He spent eight years working with the hospital board and another five years as chairman of the building committee for the senior citizens' home.

Mr. Davis is the past-president of the Weyburn Curling Club. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge No. 20 of Weyburn and the Weyburn 100F Lodge.

In 1948, Mr. Davis began working in the garage business in Weyburn and worked there until coming to Kelowna in February, 1963.

There are three other employees at the service station besides Mr. Davis. They are: Gordon Morrison, general mechanical repair, Gary Davis, front end man and Andy Salikan, night man at the service station.

Mr. Morrison has lived in the Okanagan area for 11 years and has spent the last three years with Kelowna as "his home base." Previously, Mr. Morrison had been the manager of another Kelowna service station. He joined the staff of Richter.

Davis Shell Service early in April.

Gary Davis, is the son of the present manager. He left high school four years ago. During his high school days, Gary played on school football and basketball teams. He played for a number of school football teams that won trophies.

Since coming to Kelowna, Gary has joined the Kelowna militia. He said he finds the weather here better than in Weyburn but he isn't too fussy about the mountains. Of course, during his spare time, he likes to tinker with automobiles.

Like Mr. Davis, Andy Salikan was employed by a construction company before coming to the Shell station at Harvey and Richter.
